MURAVERA AREA

PORTO CORALLO

The beach of Porto Corallo has coarse sand and is surrounded by vegetation that reaches down onto the beach. The name refers to the presence of coral colonies, the gathering of which has gone on for many eras to create marvellous objects, especially in combination with gold. Behind the beach, a Spanish tower of the sixteenth century, aimed to sight the fleets of pirates that infested and plundered the area of Villaputzu.

VILLASIMIUS AREA

CALA SINZIAS

The beach of Cala Sinzias is located above a forest of eucalyptus, protected from the homonymous promontory. The white and fine sand of the coast is interrupted by rocks. Its light blue waters have been reported by Goletta Verde for their clearness. The beach is completely equipped with facilities, accessible to the disabled and is characterized by a seabed generally low and irregular.

PUNTA MOLENTIS

Punta Is Molentis is one of the most famous beaches in Villasimius and is only 3 km from the town centre. Juniper, Cistus and Lentiscus frame this breathtaking sea view along with the granite rocks in the background and thick bushy vegetation all around. You will walk along paths full of scented plants to discover a beach of sand and pebbles and a crystal clear sea. The beach is equipped for you to relax in peace and quiet on sun beds under the sun umbrellas.

SIMIUS

Simius beach is the official beach of the centre of Villasimius. Although it is just steps away from bars, restaurants and hotels, its beauty remains totally intact. Fine white sand, crystal clear water and all comforts available make this part of the coast the ideal place for those of you who are staying in the heart of Villasimius. Services available: many bars and restaurants, sun umbrellas, beds and boats for rent.

VILLASIMIUS AREA

PORTO GIUNCO

Porto Giunco beach is located in the south-east side of Capo Carbonara, under the Porto Giunco Tower. From Villasimius to "Porticciolo" (harbour), after about 3 km, you will reach a wide pinewood where it is possible to park. The beach that you find after the trees is called Porto Giunco-Notteri. Also known as the "two seas beach", it takes its name from the near pond and has the same characteristics of Simius beach such as wide and rich beach. This area is part of the natural park of Villasimius. Facilities are available on the beach.

GEREMEAS

30 kilometres southeast of Cagliari amidst a fascinating landscape of unspoiled sand dunes, aquamarine inlets and strange rock formations lies Geremeas. Its two long sandy beaches, Spiaggia Geremeas and Spiaggia Cannesisa, are framed by a coastline of unparalleled beauty. The unusual juxtaposition of the spectacular sea and a spiffy village makes for an ideal blend of urbanity and nature. The long, non-touristic beach is only a five minutes' walk from the villas.

CAGLIARI AREA

POETTO

The Poetto beach is truly vast, stretching as it does between Cagliari and Quartu Sant'Elena, and closed off at one end by the Sella del Diavolo Headland. As Poetto is backed by the Molentargius and Saline wetlands, standing on the beach it is often possible to spy the stately flight of flocks of pink flamingos, which have been safely nesting since 1993 in a protected oasis, one of a kind in Italy. Once thronged by colourful wooden beach huts, locally known as the "casotti", the beach today has a full range of facilities. The built area behind the beach is in itself a quarter of the city, and offers urban services such as parking areas and a hospital, as well as the tourist port of Marina Piccola.

CALAMOSCA

Calamosca is located in Cagliari, thus enjoying all the benefits of a city: the proximity of hotels, restaurants and cafes. In the locality of Calamosca, the beach of the same name presents itself with a seashore of coarse sand mixed with gravel of different sizes, bordered on the western side by a bluff and the promontory of Colle Sant'Elia, overlooked by a watchtower; the large hill has, over time, become famous as the Devil's Saddle, from a legend that sees Lucifer, the devil, unsaddled by the angels. The beach of Calamosca, even if in an area set apart from the city, is not only visited by the inhabitants of Cagliari, but also discovered by tourists that are struck by the beauty of its shoals, full of light and shades of colour.

PULA AREA

NORA DI PULA

The beach of Nora is located in the locality of the same name, in the municipal area of Pula. It has white, mixed grain sand, enclosed by a rock formation, and its waters are shallow. Close to the beach is the small medieval church of Sant'Efisio, in memory of the place where it is said that the saint found martyrdom. The beach is near the archaeological zone of Nora, a city founded by the Phoenicians between the 9th and 8th centuries B.C., the most ancient apparently in Sardinia. It has many facilities: it is wheelchair accessible, has a large car park suitable for campervans; there are hotels, cafés, restaurants and it is possible to rent beach umbrellas, sun-loungers and pedal boats.

FORTE VILLAGE

Located in one of the most beautiful corners of the island, between Pula and Capo Spartivento, an unforgettable highlight of Forte Village. Protected by a chain of mountains, it's never too windy or too hot. The sea, too, is wonderfully alluring, as the almost sub-tropical microclimate makes the sea-temperature an impressive 2nd warmer than other parts of Sardinia.

TUERREDDA AREA

SU GIUDEU

Chia - Su Giudeu is located 2 km far from Chia, along the coast after the beach of Porto Campana. It is, with any doubts, among the most beautiful beaches of the Mediterranean sea: really wide and flour-like sand, and marvellous waters. All around, the 20 metres high dunes are covered by ancient junipers modelled by the wind. On the right side of the beach, 150 metres far away from the sea, there is a big, dark reef where, in spring, wild goats use to herd. It is possible to reach it walking through the sandy shallows that sometimes rise completely from the water, or swimming for few metres. From the top you will enjoy an amazing sight on the whole coast of Chia.

CALA CIPOLLA

Situated just before the promontory of Capo Spartivento, Cala Cipolla is surrounded by pines and secular junipers. The panorama offered by this coastal line also includes the expanse of beaches, ponds and promontories that develop around the tower of Chia, with the whole remainder of the South Coast (Costa del Sud) that stretches out to the west up to Capo Teulada. The beach has pure white sand and granite rocks of a thousand forms. Cala Cipolla, which borders with the bay of S'Acqua Durci della Baia di Chia, is not particularly large but it boasts remarkable beauty owed to the crystal clarity of the sea and the highlights of the sand. The cove is enclosed by granite bluffs.

TUERREDDA

Tuerredda has the right to be counted among the most beautiful beaches of Sardinia, and, according to many people, even among the top ten. White light sand, similar to talc, crystalline sea, Tuerredda is in a natural and still unspoiled scenery.
